From: johnlu
Sent: Friday, June 23, 1995 9:00 AM
To: bens; thomasre; paulma; bradsi, chrisjo
Subject: RE: Netscape meeting: reality

obviously netscape does see us as a client competitor. i'm glad you didn't tell them many specifics. we have to work extra hard to get ohare on the oem disks.

this is my biggest fear -- that netscape convinces compaq or someone else to ship netscape. it seems like it would be a really easy sell to compaq. we have to communicate our oem iexplore plan to all oems asap. chris can you and johngray get together and make this happen the tough question is whether we shoudl post our browser beta or not. i tend to think not because it just gives them too much time to react. i think a better strategy is to identify some key windows folks on the web like some of the guys who have their own win95 web pages, or other key influencers. anyways good discussion topic.

>>i am sure they have our browser already. i think we should post and start to get feedback. if we have a huge feature hole i want to know it sooner rather than later

GOVERNMENT EXHIBIT
623
PENGAD-Bayonne, N.J.