About NICHCY

NICHCY is an information and referral center that provides information on disabilities and disability-related issues, including research-based effective educational practices. Children and youth with disabilities (birth to age 22) are our special focus.

In addition to our publications, we offer a number of services:

- personal responses to questions on disability issues, including specific disabilities, early intervention, special education, family issues, education rights and responsibilities, Individualized Education Programs, and much more;
- referrals to other organizations and agencies, including national and state disability groups, regional and state organizations, professional associations, information centers, parent groups, and advocacy groups;
- information searches of NICHCY's databases and library;
- technical assistance to parent and professional groups; and
- a terrific Web site—come visit us!

NEWS DIGEST

The News Digest series takes an in-depth look at current disability issues, such as parent concerns, education rights, assessment, and inclusion. Each issue concludes with a resource list of publications and organizations.

Who's Teaching Our Children with Disabilities? (#ND27)
1997, 24 pages, $4.00

This News Digest takes a fresh and revealing look at the individuals who teach students with disabilities—special educators and paraprofessionals.

The IDEA Amendments of 1997 (#ND26)
Revised Edition, 1998, 40 pages
First copy free.
Additional copies $4.00 each.

This News Digest looks in detail at the major changes that have taken place in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), which was amended in June 1997.

Interventions for Students with Learning Disabilities (#ND25)
1997, 16 pages, $4.00

This document focuses on two promising interventions for students with learning disabilities: helping students use learning strategies and helping them develop phonological awareness. (It can be used with Bibliography 14, Learning Strategies for Students with Learning Disabilities.)

Assessing Children for the Presence of a Disability (#ND23)
1994, 28 pages, $4.00

This News Digest describes the assessment process that school systems use to collect information to determine if a school-age child is eligible for special education services.

Questions and Answers About IDEA (#ND21)

Available in Spanish (#ND21SP)
2nd Edition, 2000, 28 pages
First copy free.
Additional copies $4.00 each.

This News Digest answers many of the questions families and professionals have about the requirements of the IDEA. It has been completely rewritten to reflect the Federal regulations for IDEA that were released in 1999.

Parenting a Child with Special Needs (#ND20)

Available in Spanish (#ND20SP)
3rd Edition, 2003, 16 pages
First copy free.
Additional copies $4.00 each.

This News Digest addresses the information needs of parents who have recently learned their child has a disability. It will also help professionals understand how having a child with a disability can affect a family. Completely revised in 2003, it features the latest in writings for parents by parents.

Related Services (#ND16)

Available in Spanish (#ND16SP)
2nd Edition, 2001
20 pages, $4.00

This News Digest looks exclusively at related services for school-aged children with disabilities, including occupational and physical therapy, speech-language pathology, transportation, and special health services. It reflects current practice in the field and the Federal regulations for IDEA that were released in 1999.

TRANSITION SUMMARY

Each Transition Summary looks closely at an issue related to preparing youth with disabilities to move from high school to the adult world.

Transition Planning: A Team Effort (#TS10)

1999, Resources updated, 2002
24 pages, $4.00

This Transition Summary describes how to creatively construct a student's transition team to use all community resources available, not just the agencies that have traditionally been involved.

Travel Training for Youth with Disabilities (#TS9)

1996, 24 pages, $4.00

This Transition Summary focuses on training people with disabilities to use public transportation safely and independently.

DISABILITY BRIEFING PAPERS

NICHCY's Briefing Papers take a thorough look at selected disabilities. Each concludes with a resource list of publications and organizations.

Pervasive Developmental Disorders (#FS20)

1998, 16 pages, $2.00
This publication describes the category of Pervasive Developmental Disorders and the five disorders within the category, including autism. The publication then focuses on Pervasive Developmental Disorder Not Otherwise Specified (PDDNOS), also called PDD.

Reading and Learning Disabilities (#FS17)

3rd Edition, 2000, 16 pages, $2.00

This publication describes the characteristics of learning disabilities and how having a learning disability can affect the life of a child, youth, or adult.

Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (#FS14)

Available in Spanish (#FS14SP)
3rd Edition, 2002, 24 pages, $2.00

This publication provides information about the characteristics of AD/HD, how to help children at home and at school, and the legal responsibilities of schools to provide services to students with AD/HD.

PARENT'S GUIDE

The Parent's Guide series offers practical answers to questions and concerns that many parents of children with disabilities have.

Developing Your Child's IEP* (#PA12)

Available in Spanish (#PA12SP)
2002, 28 pages. First copy free.

Additional copies $2.00 each.

Be a full participant in developing your child's IEP! This Parent's Guide tells you how. It looks in detail at the IEP and discusses how to work effectively with schools to help your child get an education tailored to his or her needs.

Serving on Boards and Committees (#PA11)

1998, 8 pages, $2.00
This Parent's Guide describes the types of boards and committees on which parents of children with disabilities typically serve. Suggestions are given for how to be an effective board member, including how to communicate the needs of children with disabilities to other members.

Accessing Parent Groups (#PA10)

Available in Spanish (#PA10SP)
1993, 12 pages, $2.00

Parent groups are a great way for parents to share information, give and receive emotional support, and work as a team to address common concerns. This Parent's Guide can help parents locate existing parent groups or start a new group.

Communicating with the School Through Letterwriting (#PA9)

Available in Spanish (#PA9SP)
2nd Edition, 2002, 24 pages, $2.00

This Parent's Guide, completely revised to reflect the requirements of IDEA 97, looks at the rights of parents and children with disabilities and identifies times when you may want or need to write to the school. Sample letters are included.

Planning a Move: Mapping Your Strategy (#PA8), 1994, 12 pages, $2.00

If you have a child with a disability and you're moving from one place to another, there's a lot to think about, including making sure you have all your child's educational and medical records and finding out about available services in the new location. This document can help you make the move smoothly!

Accessing Programs for Infants, Toddlers, and Preschoolers (#PA2)

Available in Spanish (#PA2SP)
1994, Resources updated, 2003
20 pages. First copy free.
Additional copies $2.00 each.

This Parent's Guide answers questions about how to access early intervention services for infants and toddlers (birth through 2 years) and special education programs for pre-schoolers with disabilities (ages 3-5).

BASICS FOR PARENTS

The Basics for Parents series looks at aspects of the disability experience and provides parents with information they need in an easy-to-read style.

Parent Training & Information (PTI) Centers (#BP3)

2003, 4 pages. First copy free.
Additional copies $2.00 each.

Looking for resources in your state and community? Need information about disabilities, the educational rights of your child, or strategies for being an effective advocate for your child? Call your state's PTI—the Parent Training and Information Center—or your state's CPRC—Community Parent

Resource Center. This publication will tell you what PTIs and CPRCs do, how they help parents, and how to get in touch with yours.

Parent to Parent Support (#BP2)

Available in Spanish (#BP2SP)
2002, 4 pages. First copy free.
Additional copies $2.00 each.

Ever wish you could talk to another parent whose child has the same disability as yours? This document describes the Parent to Parent Program, which matches parents in one-on-one relationships for sharing information, experiences, and emotional and practical support.

Your Child's Evaluation (#BP1)

Available in Spanish (#BP1SP)
1999, 4 pages. First copy free.
Additional copies $2.00 each.

Want to know what steps the school system will use to evaluate your child to determine if he or she has a disability and is eligible for special education? This document describes the evaluation process in easy-to-understand terms.

RESEARCH BRIEFS

The Research Brief series looks at what the research has to tell us about topics important to special education and disabilities.

Interventions for Chronic Behavior Problems (#RB1)

1999, 8 pages, $2.00

This Research Brief is meant to help schools answer the question, "What does the research tell us about promising interventions for students with a history of behavior problems?"

Who are the Children in Special Education? (#RB2)

2003, 8 pages, $2.00

Find out more about the characteristics and experiences of the children with disabilities who are receiving special education in the U.S. This Research Brief introduces SEELS, a study following students as they move through six years of schooling. The study looks at their academic performance, school experiences, family life, social adjustment, and personal growth.

STUDENT GUIDE AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE GUIDE ★

These publications are how-to guides made up of 3 components: (1) an audiotape, (2) a Student's Guide booklet for students, and (3) a Technical Assistance Guide booklet that parents, teachers, transition specialists, and others can use to help the student achieve the goals addressed in the student materials.

Note: Most people order these materials as a SET (it's less expensive, too!), but you can also order each component in the set individually.

A Student's Guide to Jobs (#Set2)
1999, $5.00

Award Winning!

On the audiotape of this Student's Guide set, young people with mental retardation or autism speak candidly about their job-related experiences. Parents, transition specialists, and employers also share their insights. Supporting materials include: a booklet for students (8 pages) and a Technical Assistance Guide (20 pages) to assist families, transition specialists, employers, and others in helping students with significant cognitive disabilities find and keep a job.

To order individual pieces of Set 2:

A Student's Guide to Jobs booklet only.
(#ST2B) $2.00

Technical Assistance Guide: Helping Students Find and Keep a Job booklet only. (#TA3B) $2.00

Cassette only. (#Tape2) $2.00

A Student's Guide to the IEP (#Set1)
2nd Edition, 2002, $5.00

2002
edition!

This Student's Guide set will help students develop their own Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) consistent with the requirements of IDEA '97. The tape for students features several students talking about their experiences as active participants on their IEP team. Supporting materials include: a student booklet to guide students through the IEP process (12 pages), a Technical Assistance Guide (20 pages) to assist individuals who would like to help students be involved in their IEP meetings, and (on the flip side of the student tape) another taped program for parents, transition specialists, and teachers.

To order individual pieces of Set 1:

A Student's Guide to the IEP booklet only. (#ST1B) $2.00

Technical Assistance Guide: Helping Students Develop Their IEPs booklet only. (#TA2B) $2.00

Cassette only (contains both audio programs). (#Tape1) $2.00
