Enclosed please find materials relating to the background and interests of Dr. Marc S. Micozzi.

We have received a request that Dr. Micozzi's research program be funded during 1981 at the University of Pennsylvania in the amount of $10,000. Dr. Micozzi is presently a resident physician in pathology at Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia. He has elected to pursue a Ph.D. in biomedical anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania during his residency. His doctoral research focuses on neonatal conditions and their relationship with genetic, environmental and constitutional factors. As evidenced by the enclosed article, Dr. Micozzi has already published on psychosocial factors and childhood blood pressure.

Relevant aspects of Dr. Micozzi's background include a Postdoctoral Fellowship spent with Dr. Domingo Aviado and specialty training in experimental technique and maternal and child health care. His thesis advisor and several other faculty members at the University of Pennsylvania are interested in the relationship between maternal risk factors and various conditions in offspring. We believe Dr. Micozzi is in a unique position to study pregnancy outcome from a clinical, epidemiological and sociocultural viewpoint.

Dr. Micozzi plans to complete his Ph.D. over a three-year period and we anticipate that he will seek future support
